Some Background Information

In 2006, around the fifth anniversary of the attacks on Sept. 11th, I was asked by School Library Journal to write an article that would address the need for literature about Muslims to create cross cultural understanding. Towards that end, I wrote an article called Muslims in Children's Books and compiled this book list. You can find the article here: <http://www.schoollibraryjournal.com/article/CA6367083.html>

Over the years I have added to this booklist as more books about Muslims become available and time allows. These are books that I approve of, so it is by no means a complete list of all the books out there.

I designed this booklist for teachers, librarians, conscientious parents and anyone with an interest in Islam and Muslims. The format of each entry is pretty standard: Author's last name in bold capitals, Author's first name, title of the book, illustrator of the book (if necessary), publisher and year of publication followed by a brief description of the book.

I've divided the booklist into sections: Contemporary picture books; Contemporary novels and short story collections; Folktales; and Non-Fiction.

Any suggestions for additions or comments regarding this book list can be sent to me at rukhsana@rukhsanakhan.com.

I hope you find this list useful and I hope this list leads to greater cross-cultural understanding. With all the turmoil going on in this world, heaven knows we need it!

Sincerely,

Rukhsana Khan
